Webpage Title:

How to prepare for transferring into (insert department name)

Website Context (can be formatted differently)

To prepare for a successful application and transfer from a community college, refer to the following worksheet: (insert link to major specific planning worksheet)

Students are not required to complete an associates degree to apply, but it is recommended to complete as many of (insert course name) courses listed on the worksheet above prior to admission. Students can match course numbers on the planning worksheets to those from Washington State community or technical colleges with the UW Transfer Equivalency Guide. Students from outside of Washington state can contact an adviser with questions about course equivalency for major or minor requirements.

Prior to admission, applicants can use the UW MyPlan tool to create an academic plan including courses you have already taken as well as courses you plan to take at the UW.

Prospective transfer students at any stage of the planning or application process are invited to contact the (insert department name) Adviser. Students can consult with the adviser about their individual academic planning prior to admission, and are invited to visit the campus for in-person advising appointments. Schedule a visit (insert link) to campus around one of the weekly Transfer Thursday events to get general information about the transfer admission process.
